Unlike any other experience in the region, the Loras College Peace Institute provides high school aged leaders with the opportunity to gain unique skills and experiences which they can use to promote peace in their personal lives, in their communities, and in the world.

Over the course of the four days, the institute will prepare our young adults for ethically-based engagement in community, nation, and world.

Through interactive learning activities and programming, our young adults will engage in concepts such as peace with self, peace with community, peace with creation, and peace with the world.

Interreligious literacy, leadership development, relationship building, and relationship repairing will become lived values that young adults of different faith backgrounds will transfer into their homes, schools, and communities.

4 DAYS | 4 CONCEPTS

PEACE WITH SELF
Develop strategies of self-awareness and mindfulness to find peace within.

PEACE WITH COMMUNITY
Learn from local leaders courageous ways to respond to racism and other injustices.

PEACE WITH CREATION
Reconnect with the resources of our natural environment.

PEACE WITH THE WORLD
Discover your role in affecting peace on a global scale.

loras.edu/peaceinstitute
APPLY NOW!
www.loras.edu/peaceinstitute

For more information, contact:
Brenna Cussen Anglada
Peace Institute Co-Director
608-568-3630
brenna.cussenanglada@loras.edu

Stacia McDermott
Director of Spiritual Life, Peace & Justice
Loras College
1450 Alta Vista Box #7
Dubuque, IA 52001
563-588-7056
anastacia.mcdermott@loras.edu

Cost to attend is $400
(scholarships available)

Application Deadline -
May 1, 2019