

RACIAL JUSTICE (2021-2022)

Division of Philosophical, Religious, Theological, Social & Cultural Studies

Christoffer Lammer-Heindel, Ph.D., Chair

The Racial Justice minor will take an interdisciplinary approach to the study of racism, white supremacy, and racial justice in the United States. Like the Gender Studies minor, the Racial Justice minor will provide students with a grounding in sociology and history through their required courses. This will provide them with a common language and base of material from which to draw in their elective coursework.

Student Learning Outcomes – Racial Justice
1.	Students will be able to explain the ways in which race and racism are built into the micro, meso, and macro levels of society.
2.	Students will be able to articulate the ways in which race shapes experiences in the United States.
3.	Students will be able to identify and evaluate varied methods for achieving racial justice in the United States.

Requirements for the minor in Racial Justice:

Note: No more than 9 credits may come from a single discipline

Req	Course	Cr's
1	L.SOC-254: Race and Ethnicity in the United States	3
2	L.HIS-235: Equality!: Race and Gender Reform in the United States-AC, EI	3
Four additional classes
3	Elective: Additional course from list	3
4	Elective: Additional course from list	3
5	Elective: Additional course from list	3
6	Elective: Additional course from list 300+ level	3
18 total required credits

Racial Justice Minor Elective Course Options

- L.EDU-265: Multicultural Education-AC, EI
- L.ENG-224: African American Literature and Culture
- L.ENG-251: Literature and Film of the American West and Frontier – AA, EC
- L.ENG-252: Law in American Literature and Film -AA, EI
- L.ENG-253: Native Voices, Native Lives -EC
- L.ENG-277: Rhetoric and Political Engagement-EI
- L.ENG-390: Writing as Social Action
- L.HIS-229: African American History-AI, EI
- L.HIS-230: Community and Identity in the American West-AI, EI
- L.HIS-235: Equality! Race and Gender Reform in the United States-AC, EI
- L.HIS-443: Civil War and Reconstruction
- L.HIS-456: The Civil Rights Movement
- L.POL-304: Identity Politics

L.SOC-250: Aryan Societies

L.SOC-390: Social Inequality in the United States

Additional classes will be added to this list as they are offered.